

on the anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor and to honor the memory of fellow Cambria County native Marine Sgt. Michael Strank who helped to raise the flag at Iwo Jima.

Vizzini was often the voice for those who did not have one. He was known for rallying at the Cambria County Courthouse for causes that he felt passionately about. To honor the 63 miners who died at the 1940 Sonman Mines explosion in Portage, Pennsylvania, he organized a memorial service. He also was influential in honoring the 112 who lost their lives in the Cambria Steel Company's 1902 Rolling Mine Mill explosion in Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

Madam Speaker, I wish to conclude my remarks by saying that Charlie Vizzini will be remembered as a great American. He was a war hero who continued to serve his country by honoring his fellow veterans throughout his life. His selfless service to others in all walks of life will not be forgotten. Madam Speaker, Charlie Vizzini will truly be missed.

IN MEMORY OF COLONEL DONALD BLAKESKLEE

HON. IKE SKELTON

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

Mr. SKELTON. Madam Speaker, it is with sadness that I inform the House of the death of Donald Blakeslee, Colonel, United States Army (Ret.) of Miami, Florida.

Col. Blakeslee was born in Fairport Harbor, Ohio. During his teenager years, he became fond of airplanes after watching them race every year at the National Air Races in Cleveland. Consequently, he and a friend, in the mid-1930s, bought a Piper Cub.

Prior to U.S. entrance into World War II, Col. Blakeslee's enthusiasm for fighting became clear when he joined the Royal Canadian Air Force. After pilot training, he was deployed to Britain, where he flew combat missions for the Royal Air Force (RAF) alongside a group of American volunteers known as American Eagle Squadrons. Ultimately, he became commander of the 133rd RAF Eagle Squadrons. When the Eagle Squadrons joined the U.S. Army Air Forces in September 1942, he became commander of the 335th Fighter Squadron. Then on January 1, 1944, Col. Blakeslee was named commander of the 4th Fighter Group of the 8th Fighter Command.

After four years in the European theater, Col. Blakeslee flew nearly 500 missions and had about 1,000 combat missions. According to Barrett Tillman, a former executive secretary of the American Fighter Aces Association, Col. Blakeslee had more missions and hours "than any other American fighter pilot of World War II." Some of his achievements include leading the first escort mission to Berlin on March 6, 1944, in which his group protected Boeing B-17s and Consolidated B-24s while dropping bombs over the German city and setting a record for most enemies shot down in one day at 31 planes on April 8, 1944.

On April 11, 1944, Col. Blakeslee was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross by General Dwight D. Eisenhower. For his service in the Korean War, he received the Legion of Merit. In all, his military service earned him two Distinguished Service Crosses, seven Distinguished Flying Crosses, two Silver Stars, six Air Medals and the British Distinguished Flying Cross.

After the World War II, Col. Blakeslee remained in the Air Force. He led the 27th Fighter Wing in Korea and served in Vietnam. In 1965, he retired to Florida to live with his wife, Leola Fryer. Col. Blakeslee is survived by his daughter Dawn Blakeslee.

Madam Speaker, Col. Donald Blakeslee was an honorable officer in the military. I am certain that the members of the House will join me in extending their heartfelt condolences to his family and friends. He will be greatly missed.

TRIBUTE TO MR. AND MRS. PAUL
PRYOR HONORING THEIR 70TH
WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

HON. MARK H. SCHAUER

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

Mr. SCHAUER. Madam Speaker, I wish to take this opportunity to extend my congratulations to Paul and Arlene Pryor, who celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary earlier this year. Through their devotion to one another, their commitment to their children and grandchildren, and their involvement in community life, Mr. and Mrs. Pryor have contributed a great deal to the State of Michigan and its future.

Standing by each other, Mr. and Mrs. Pryor have demonstrated the power of love for seven decades. This momentous anniversary only epitomizes the devotion they have shared for so many years. Paul and Arlene Pryor are truly an inspiration to many.

Madam Speaker, please join me in celebrating their joyous occasion.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE 125TH AN-NIVERSARY OF MAE EDWARDS
MEMORIAL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

HON. JEFF MILLER

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the 125th Anniversary of Mae Edwards Memorial United Methodist Church in Milton, Florida. Mae Edwards Memorial has long been a positive force in Northwest Florida, and I am proud to honor their tremendous contributions to the community.

Mae Edwards Memorial United Methodist was started in 1884 on the Andrew Jackson Brown property. Since there were no other churches in the local community, all of the families moving to the area attended the same church regardless of denomination. In 1916, a new community church was constructed and used by members of the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Christian churches. During this time, Mae and Cliff Edwards moved to the area and joined the church. After their passing, the church was named as a memorial to Mae Edwards, who dedicated her time and her effort to the church's progress and spiritual growth.

In 1936, the old church building was torn down, and wood from the building was used to construct a community hall and church alongside the local school. Church services were originally held in the community hall, but later moved inside the school after it was renovated. The old hall was converted into a kitchen, social area, and classrooms. The church continues to grow and serve the community, and in 2001, Mae Edwards Memorial was named the small membership church of the year for the Pensacola District. In a testament to the church's strength, many of the current members are descendants of the original church founders.

Madam Speaker, on behalf of the United States Congress, I am privileged to honor Mae Edwards Memorial United Methodist Church upon 125 years of dedicated service to our community. My wife Vicki and I wish the best for continued growth and service to Reverend Byrd Mapoles and the entire church family.

INTRODUCING THE DETAINMENT
REFORM ACT OF 2009

HON. ALCEE L. HASTINGS

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

Mr. HASTINGS. Madam Speaker, I rise to introduce the Detainment Reform Act of 2009, a bill to ensure that we can defend our national security while also ensuring the highest standards of human rights and justice. We owe such an effort not just to ourselves but to an entire world that looks to the United States for leadership. We are a nation where the rule of law is king, and our detainment policies must reflect not the whim of our emotions but the perseverance of our reason.

Great thinkers have long noted that a society can be judged by the way it treats its prisoners. Since the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, the United States has detained—for periods long and short—thousands of individuals captured in Iraq, Afghanistan, and elsewhere around the world. Many of those detained are guilty of committing terrible crimes. Many are innocent. We ought to have the authority to protect ourselves by detaining those who use murder, terror, and reckless violence to attack our country. But it must also be apparent that we cannot indefinitely detain those who mean us no harm.

Unfortunately, many of those we capture and detain do not easily fit into our criminal justice system. This has complicated the efforts to provide the same constitutional protections accorded accused persons in the United States. To compound the problem, there exists no agreed-upon procedural standard in United States courts to govern the detention of individuals arrested outside the zones of active military operations. This lack of judicial coherence has created a vacuum in which the current method of combating terrorism is not only inadequate to protect our country, but also fails to adhere to the Constitution, federal law, international human rights law, and the laws of armed conflict.

Under the detention regime in place since 2002, several detainees in United States control have died under mysterious circumstances. Many have been tortured. Still others have been held for years without access to a lawyer, no right to hear the charges against them, and no way of appealing rudimentary reviews of their status. They are outside our laws but inside our prisons, at the mercy of a process that is bad for our national security, bad for human rights, and downright horrible for America's image in the world. When we detain individuals for years without ensuring that they have access to a fair and accountable system of justice, we undermine hundreds of years of democracy. This system of arbitrary justice risks replicating the very authoritarianism we fight against. It is far past time to change.

Madam Speaker, as I mentioned, we are a nation of laws, and Congress makes those laws. I am aware that many pundits, columnists, television talk show hosts, and others, have suggested that Congress cannot act intelligently or courageously on this matter. They argue that the members of this body are too bogged down in "Not In My Backyard" arguments, and too quick to accuse each other of being weak on national security. While the President has insisted on closing Guantanamo Bay, many Members of Congress have argued to keep it open. But the debate before us today is not about the place. It's about the policy. The fact of the matter is that this issue cannot be left to the Executive Branch to make it up as they go along. Congress has the responsibility to legislate on this issue in a manner that reflects reason, clarity, and an understanding that our detention policies reflect who we are as a nation.

The Detainment Reform Act presents a plan for dramatic change, contemplating policies and guidelines to address not only current detainees but those who we will need to detain in future conflicts. This legislation creates specific definitions for those who can be detained and provides for a process of judicial review upon their initial detention. This model ensures that we will hold only those persons who pose a danger to our security, and that those who mean us no harm will not have to fear languishing in prison. This bill further provides for judicial proceedings to determine whether an individual can be charged with an offense, transferred to either his country of origin or another country, or whether he can continue to be held should the government petition for his detention. But in this last instance, the government will have to demonstrate enough cause to hold someone as a threat.

Ultimately, Madam Speaker, this bill achieves what we are all seeking: a transparent and accountable process. Frederick Douglas once noted that "the life of the nation is secure only while the nation is honest, truthful, and virtuous." If we follow his advice in this debate, we can better protect our national security, maintain the sanctity of human rights, and hold fast to the notion that America is a nation committed to justice for all.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

Mr. HELLER. Madam Speaker, on rollcall No. 748, had I been present, I would have voted "yea".

REGARDING THE TSUNAMI IN AMERICAN SAMOA

HON. HENRY E. BROWN, JR.

OF SOUTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

Mr. BROWN of South Carolina. Madam Speaker, as the Ranking Republican Member of the Natural Resources Subcommittee of Insular Affairs, Oceans and Wildlife, which has jurisdiction over the U.S. territories, including American Samoa, I was saddened to hear of the severe devastation that occurred after a tsunami hit the island. My deepest sympathies go out to the island nation of 65,000 people.

News outlets are reporting that four tsunami waves 15 to 20 feet high roared ashore on American Samoa. Many of the island towns are located near the sea and the devastation that followed the tsunami event appears to be immense, with pictures of the island showing buildings destroyed, cars and boats displaced and the local people trying to recover. The island is without power and water at this time as it is in the early stages of the recovery effort. Sadly, it has been reported that many people have lost their lives and the casualty numbers may increase as the recovery effort expands.

Madam Speaker, it is my understanding that the airport and sea port are open and emergency supplies and assistance are en route to the island. The Coast Guard will be inspecting the sea port and is bringing in much needed medical and other necessary supplies from Hawaii. In addition, the USS Ingram is headed to the island to assist with medical support, rescue efforts and water needs. Shelters are open on the island to assist displaced citizens and efforts are under way to clear roadways. It will most likely take months to recover from this event and we should do all we can to help assist and support American Samoa in their recovery from this tsunami.

I had the privilege of traveling to American Samoa where I received the utmost hospitality. My thoughts and prayers are with their people as they cope with the effects of this sudden natural disaster.

IN RECOGNITION OF REVEREND FRED ROGERS UPON HIS 40TH ANNIVERSARY AS PASTOR OF MILTON FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD

HON. JEFF MILLER

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize the Reverend Frederick E. Rogers upon his 40th anniversary as pastor of Milton First Assembly of God in Milton, Florida. He is a true spiritual and community leader, and I am humbled to honor such a dedicated servant of God.

Pastor Rogers is a lifelong Floridian who has always been dedicated to the church. He graduated from Milton High School and received his undergraduate degree from Southeastern Bible Institute in Lakeland, Florida. In 1957, he married Jacquelyn Shelton, and the couple recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Pastor Fred and Jackie pioneered a church in Eustis, Florida, and then moved on to pastor churches in Greensboro and then Panama City. In August of 1969, they returned to Milton and began pasturing at Milton First Assembly of God.

Pastor Rogers has led a life of service. He has served in a variety of roles for the church, and is currently the Executive Presbyterian in the West District of Florida. He has been a member of the Milton Kiwanis Club since 1970, and served as its president from 1977–1978. In 1977, he was named Santa Rosa county Chamber of Commerce Man of the Year for his continued dedication.

Madam Speaker, on behalf of the United States Congress, I am privileged to honor Fred Rogers on his 40 years with Milton First Assembly of God. Pastor Rogers is a Northwest Florida leader and part of the fabric of our community. My wife Vicki and I wish the best for continued growth and service to Reverend Fred Rogers, his wife Jackie, his children Andy, Robin, and Cheri, his grandchildren, and the entire Milton First Assembly of God church family.

HONORING HENRY BIENEN ON HIS RETIREMENT AS PRESIDENT OF NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY

HON. DANIEL LIPINSKI

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 6, 2009

Mr. LIPINSKI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Henry Bienen on his retirement as president of Northwestern University, one of the world's top universities and my alma mater. Mr. Bienen's retirement on August 31, 2009 leaves a legacy of nearly 15 years of academic excellence and relentless institutional improvement at Northwestern.

Mr. Bienen's tenure as president yielded truly amazing results. Under his leadership, Northwestern enhanced its academic excellence, doubling its number of undergraduate applicants, raising the average SAT score for incoming freshmen by 150 points, and vastly increasing the number of National Merit Scholars. Larger investments in undergraduate research and expanded programs continue to present students with engaging and innovative learning experiences. Mr. Bienen surpassed all expectations when he led "Campaign Northwestern," raising $1.55 billion in a five-year period. Mr. Bienen also helped solidify Northwestern's financial stability by quintupling the endowment and raising research funding from outside sources by 140 percent.

Of particular interest to me, Mr. Bienen recognized the need for an even greater commitment to scientific research. He put his efforts behind Northwestern's Institute for Nanotechnology and constructed new research facilities that have made Northwestern a world leader in nanotechnology. Mr. Bienen's commitment to nanotechnology and scientific research at large went far beyond the construction of new buildings, as he was personally invested in the recruitment and hiring of distinguished researchers and instructors. His accomplishments and commitment were recognized in 2005, when Mr. Bienen was one of the first three university presidents awarded the Carnegie Corporation Academic Leadership Award for innovative leadership in higher education.
